Provide display having an array of card holders and an advertising agreement in a public location where a potential client may approach the display

100

Potential client inserts one or more of his or her business cards in an available card holder of the display

102

Sales person collects one of the cards or information from one of the cards inserted by the potential client

104

Sales person uses information from the card to contact the potential client to obtain agreement to pay for maintaining his or her business cards in the display, and if so, to obtain additional business cards from the new client

106

Sales person periodically checks the display and adds cards of the new client to the display as needed
